What happened to Corona?

Oh my God, what happened to the Corona labs!? It was full of equipment and notes and furniture yesterday, and now it's completely empty! Did everything just disappear over night?

RE: What happened to Corona?

I can't believe it! You're right, everything's gone! I dug out Marlene's home number and gave her a call, but it said the number didn't exist. Then I tried Eric and Fred, but it was the same thing! Do you have Clara's number? She'd never give it to me, she was afraid I was hitting on her.

RE: What happened to Corona?

I tried calling Clara just now, and it was just like you said: Her number has apparently also ceased to exist. I don't like this, I got a very bad feeling. Clara said they were close to finishing the project last week. Since then, none of them have appeared in the cantina, it's like they spent 24 hours a day in their lab. The whole program was always shrouded in secrecy. I wonder what they were doing in there which was so important that not even the otherwise highly classified AI lab crew was allowed entry.

The Corona Labs

You know what I just noticed? The Corona labs are empty. When did that happen? I could have sworn all the equipment was there yesterday evening when I went home.

RE: The Corona Labs

Yeah I know, George from Surveillance Tech just mailed me about it 10 minutes ago. I can't believe it! We've both been trying to get a hold of the team, but they all seem to have disappeared. It scares the living daylights out of me! I say we all meet up in the Cantina around discuss it there. Mortimer, you tell all your AI pals about it, then William and I will make sure the ST crew also knows about it.

Lunch Meeting

I'm gonna meet up with the Integrated Systems gang in the cantina at noon. I encourage the rest of you to show up as well, we have some important stuff to discuss.

Meeting in cantina at lunch

Guys, William and I have planned a meeting concerning the recent disappearance of the Corona labs. We'll meet Chronley from the AI labs and whoever he brings along. William is also making sure the Surveillance Tech crew knows about it. Make sure you all show up in the cantina around noon.

Cantina lunch meeting

Hello guys. As you may be aware of, the Corona labs were totally cleaned out yesterday evening. Jack and I have arranged for a general meeting on the subject in the cantina at noon. Everyone from here will come, and the AI people have been informed too. It'd be best if you come too, so we can all discuss what to think of this. Perhaps we'll decide to go to the management and demand to be informed, I don't know what the other have in mind.

See you there!

Re: Cantina lunch meeting

Good idea, we'll all be there.
